INTENSIVE CAMPAIGN PLANNED BY CROSSFIELD RED CROSS IN DISTRICT

CROSSFIELD—An intensive enrollment campaign by the Crossfield Red Cross Branch, who have selected March 20th for their first Blood Donor Clinic of 1951 is underway.

Every citizen in the district is asked to co-operate to make the clinic a success.

In speaking of the Blood Transfusion Service Red Cross officials say, "this free service holds a special position in our day-to-day lives . . . a position which is seldom duplicated. Not profit but humanitarian principles are the motivating power behind this service."

A look into your local hospital reveals some of the benefits which free transfusions provide. Local donors need no longer be recruited to meet each emergency, of necessity a long and cumbersome process.

The cost of blood for transfusions is completely eliminated, permitting hospitals to give more emergency and therapeutic treatment to patients. Maternal mortality has been materially reduced through the operation of a Red Cross laboratory which does Rh investigations in maternity cases.

It has often been illustrated that the Blood Transfusion Service is a project where individual donor foresight combined with medical skill and knowledge go hand in hand in saving lives. To a normal, healthy individual giving blood has no effect. To the hospital patient needing a transfusion, the donation means life itself.

Citizens are requested to co-operate fully in making their Blood Donor Clinic a success on Tuesday, March 20.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Henry Poffenroth who passed away March 5, 1949.

The call was short, the shock severe.
To part with one we loved so dear.

Ice Carnival In Crossfield Big Success

The Crossfield Sunday School sponsored an Ice Carnival on Friday evening last and was received with a wonderful response. Joyce McDonald was crowned Carnival Queen and received many congratulations. Her ladies-in-waiting were Barbara Bills and Frances Santa. Joyce was sponsored by the F.U.W.A. There was fancy skating by the Crossfield girls which was very nicely done, followed by judging of children's costumes.

Winners under six years, Garry and Maureen Kierlin; six to nine, Dale Whitaker and Jackie Baxter; 10 to 15, Rosalyn Bills, June Bill, Ellen McDonald and Allan Kierlin.

An amusing skit by the Tuxis boys was appreciated, "Ice Follies of 1951." There were many races and a variety of games.

Outstanding were Kotow and Gibson in the boys and Norma Borbridge, Ellen McDonald and Lavonne Becker. In the Broomball game the Tuxis boys showed poor fathers how battles are won.

Beiseker C.W.L. Holds Regular Meet

BEISEKER—The C.W.L. held their regular meeting last Thursday with a good attendance.

The second in a series of card parties will be held this Sunday evening. Both bridge and whist will be played.

An annual meeting will be held next month, a nomination committee was set up of the following: Mrs. Tennant and Mrs. Matt Schmaltz.

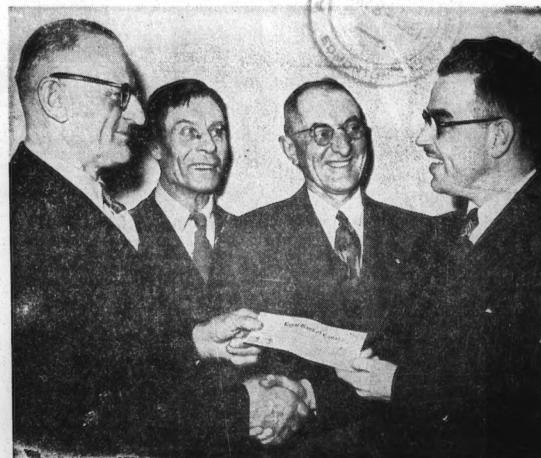

Mrs. Jack Selzler won the pool for evening.

Next meeting will be held Thursday, March 29.

BEISEKER TOPICS

BEISEKER—Mr. and Mrs. Bob Toole and Sharon visited at Jack Selzler's over the weekend.

L. L. Schmaltz's show demonstrating the Oliver machinery was held in the Memorial hall last Wednesday, Feb. 21 with a good crowd. Between films Ted Chapman's orchestra really gave some splendid entertainment.

MEMBERS OF THE BEISEKER DIVISION of the Canadian Red Cross Society recently presented Calgary Red Cross officials with a cheque for $1,230, the entire proceeds from Red Cross Day, Jan. 31, in Beiseker. The money, which will be used to equip a room in the new Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital, was raised through a single day's entertainment that included everything from a ham shoot to an auction sale. Above, John Leiske (left) of Beiseker, chairman of the Red Cross Day committee, presents the cheque to Gordon Shave, assistant commissioner of the Alberta division, C.R.C.S., while Peter (second from left) and George Schmaltz, also of Beiseker, look on.

BEISEKER ELECTORS GATHER FOR THE ANNUAL TOWN MEETING

BEISEKER—The annual meeting of the electors of the Village of Beiseker was held in the Memorial hall on Monday, February 12th. Twenty-six persons were in attendance.

Mayor Schmaltz complimented the rest of the councillors for the splendid attendance at their regular meetings on the second Monday of each month, and also stated that a new appointment had been made during the year, that of W.

C. J. Laviole as our local rat control officer. He also touched lightly on Civil Defence, and mentioned that the Village sent a delegation to Red Deer in this connection.

Both Councillors Adam Velker

and Leo Schmaltz urged the electors to bring in their complaints or suggestions to the council meetings, and to attend these meetings if just for the purpose of socializing.

The financial statement by Peter Ternes showed a very successful year.

Mr. Matt Schmaltz, commissioner of roads and buildings, complimented the electors on the cleanliness and general appearance of our village. He told the electors that the total value of new construction permits issued by the village to the value of $17-

375.00, the largest of these being fire protection in this regard, and also the need of educating the populace in the event of a disaster.

J. H. Schmaltz told the electors that the Board of Trade was endeavoring to have a telephone switchboard installed in Beiseker, and asked the support of everyone.

Matt Schmaltz urged all the electors present to support the Board of Trade with reference to the Hospital Act. He said there was a rumor afoot that the people in Beiseker would be included in some other hospital zone instead of belonging to the Calgary area, in connection with the $1.00 a day service plan.

The mayor suggested that figures on the cost of installing a Challenge to Albertans

Throughout the 37 year-old history of the Canadian Red Cross Society in Alberta, the people of the province have met many challenges, and not been found wanting. During the First World War, during the depression of the '30's, during the Second World War and up to the present time, Albertans have shown that they are Red Cross workers. No team has been too high-reaching for them to attain.

Because of the work it does, Red Cross, must continue. It is Red Cross that gives Albertans free Blood Transfusion Service, Junior Red Cross, Disaster Relief, Outpost Hospitals, Veterans Aid, Swimming and Water Safety and care to their crippled children.

This work must be continued for the good of all. No one knows when disaster will strike, when illness will require bottles of blood and plasma, when the babe in your house will need orthopedic care beyond your finances.

This year, Red Cross is asking Albertans to contribute $400,000 to continue its work. Red Cross is planning to spend in Alberta this year, a total of nearly $600,000.

The care of crippled children looms foremost in the minds of Alberta people at present for it is this year, on March 3, that Alberta's Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital will formally open its doors. Its support is up to Albertans, for while it is true that the hospital is necessary, it is truly true that we must not fail in helping its running expenses.

There is no more worthy work than that of Red Cross. When you contribute to its yearly campaign, you are merely paying a premium to ensure that the "work of mercy never ends".

Conscription

The Prime Minister has turned thumbs down on proposals for immediate institution of compulsory military service. While supporting the principle of compulsory military training, he says it is not a military necessity now and would place an undue burden on our national economy.

We admire Mr. St. Laurent for speaking out for conscription, in spite of criticism he is bound to get from his own people in Quebec. We never could understand why anyone would not want conscription for home defence. Certainly if the top brass among the military in Ottawa think it is necessary, no considerations of political expediency should cause a day's delay in passing the necessary order-in-council.

The United States has just extended the period of military training from 18 months to 27 months. If every young man in Canada, upon reaching the age of 17½ or 18 years were inducted into the Army, Air Force or Navy, and then released (provided there is by then no shooting war) it would not be a great loss to the labour supply. A lot of young hooligans would be taught to drive a tank or a gun tractor, instead of getting into police court for stealing cars.

Barring the advent of a great war, calling for full mobilization, we would in a few years have a fully trained reserve army of many thousands of young men. We need such a program of military training. We need it now.

Baptism of Fire

Last week Canadian troops went into action for the first time in Korea. It reminded us of a similar day, June 6, 1944, to be exact, when Canadians went into action, spouting fire and death on the bloody beaches of Normandy while Canadians at home prayed unashamedly in homes and in churches.

It isn't sufficient for us at this time to try and analyze the reasons why Canadians are fighting in another war. Our boys are "over there" now and more are soon to be despatched to Korea. They are undergoing their baptism of fire. Meanwhile civilians may soon face national registration, price and wage controls, we are getting air raids of low-grade wheat to starving India.

We have an idea that the Christian attitude of feeding our potential enemies is better than killing them, and cheaper in the long run. The Government is to be commended on using this method of helping forestall revolt in India while at the same time fighting to keep the peace in Korea.

Here and There

By T. W. PUE

Karl Maslyk, owner and manager of the Morinville Radiator Shop in Morinville is perhaps not a very voracious reader but nevertheless somewhat discriminating in his choice of literature.

Probably no one else in all of Alberta saw this interesting item in the Eastern daily, that had been plucked from the Peterborough Examiner. It is headed "A Bit of Advice" and reads like this:

A woman writes to an advice column asking: "What should I do with my husband's shirt collar?" Our answer: remove as much of the pigment as possible by blotting paper and a hot iron, and then rub the remainder gently with soap and warm water. Oh, yes, and you might try spraying up a bit, too.

ANOTHER DAILY—WHEN?

As I travel about the province people ask me when Edmonton will have another daily newspaper to take the place of the Edmonton Bulletin. You will remember that five weeks ago the Edmonton Journal declared they did not buy the Bulletin just after they had bought it out completely.

Well, if the Southam's were to sell the present plant to a prospective competitor (a far-fetched proposition) it would be a little bit easier for another daily to start up. But the printers have not been largely dispersed along with many key staff members, the machinery is being moved out and the Southams have a stranglehold on the bulletinsupply. They claim they didn't buy the bulletinsupply—but they got the life-blood of the paper—the newsprint quota, without any other publisher getting an opportunity to bid for it. I don't know how a daily newspaper could publish without newsprint.

Assuming, however, that you could get newsprint and a mechanical staff, you would still need $1,000,000 and two years to get organized. Would anyone like to try it?

A PROFITABLE DEAL

With absolutely no regard for the welfare of the employees of the paper they bought the Southam's and stands to make a cool $250,000 per year over and above their regular profits.

By and large, daily newspapers' circulation revenues pay for the newsprint, but the Journal will get paid twice for the extra newsprint they use. A few days after the Bulletin went out of business they increased their advertising rate by about 56¢ per column inch, ostensibly to pay for the newsprint taken up by the extra circulation that gravitated to them with the demise of their competitor.

The extra circulation will bring them $200,000 per year per year additional revenue. Not bad—when you can gobble up the competition and increase your profits by a million dollars every five years!

Don't be surprised to see the Southam interests buy out competitors in other cities such as Vancouver, Calgary and perhaps snap up other independent papers in one-paper towns such as Medicine Hat.

WHEAT CONTRACTS

Britain is still very hard up and can't afford to pay world prices for our wheat. Hon. James Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture was unable to get $1,000,000 worth of wheat from the British Food Ministry. We contend that Canada can and will supply the hunger needs of the world by reduced prices and outright gifts but this should not be done at the sole expense of the wheat producer only. Pay our farmers the full market price, and pay the losses out of the whole economy of all Canadians—not just out of the pocket of the wheat farmers.

WE CAN'T WIN

The perils of publishing make an interesting subject to close this week's discussion. We recently carried news and editorial material about an issue concerning the lively towns of Mayerthorpe and Sangudo. An advertiser in Sangudo got sore at us for publishing a story giving the Mayerthorpe angle, and cancelled his advertisement to drive home his feeling into our hide where it hurts the most. Now we have a letter from Mayerthorpe demanding an explanation on why we published the Sangudo side of the argument.

As long as we are publishing a paper, we insist on our right to publish all sides of each story as we see fit; and those who don't agree with us can register their protest with a letter to the "Voice" column here on our right. That's fair, isn't it?

Liquor Control

Dear Sir—In regard to our cartoon you published February 18th, and your comment that it had no application to the liquor control bill, allow me to make this reply.

Our way of handling liquor is admittedly better than that in Montreal or New York, or Reno, but still not above improvement.

We are not criticizing the Liquor Control Board of Alberta or the Southam's Association, as such. The latter have a tough job indeed, trying to bring all their members up to the approved standard. Naturally they don't succeed 100%. If they did we would never be asked to do a cartoon on the subject. Under the influence none would ever stagger out of the parlour at 10 p.m., or any other time. Whether we can call all men who put profits above public welfare by the term "reactionaries" is another question of the use of English. But crime can and do originate in licensed parlors. It is because of the unhealthy nature of the product they sell. Licensing an evil does not rob power to do harm. And all manner of evil could be brought to the public if we did not limit that harm to the minimum. I think there will be less cause for questioning the illustration we are sending you this week re the time taken to get over three drunks, thinking you.

Money for War

Dear Sir—We have been dragged into two world wars by such people as the present N.C.O., Sangudo, who wrote about teen-age hooligans recently.

He had his way we would not have a choice as to whether we go to Korea to slaughter innocent people or stay in Canada and work for peaceful prosperity. It makes little difference to me whether a self-respecting reactionary like Sangudo and I are certain that the teenagers feel the same. They want and need recreation facilities and jobs and security. With the money they spend for war surely a portion could be allocated for these great needs.

County Act

Dear Sir—County government is the form of local government used in the U.S.A., but it differs considerably from that proposed for Alberta. A few years ago I heard a Mystic foretell that B.C. would unite with the U.S.A. Now Astrology is predicting a union of Canada and the U.S.A., along with many other things for this decade.

The U.S.A. is a country with a small town where these officials dwell and where the business is transacted. Each year the county assessor for his particular district visits each house and makes a list of valuable things, piano, radio, gold and silver jewelry, furs, live stock, money and household value of real estate, chickens and dogs.

Anyone may run for any office he seeks; there are two parties. He or she in the county paper publishes a notice that such an office is to be voted on by the voters. The primary election is held and the person receiving the most votes for his party must run against the opponent of the opposite party and the one receiving the most votes at the general election will be elected to hold office more than two terms in succession. A term is two years.

There is a tract of county land adjoining the county seat upon which there are buildings to house stock, pottery, vegetable gardens, a park and a baseball field. There is a race track and a stadium for the spectators. Here the county fairs are held annually. A small sum is charged for admittance, except children under twelve.

Do any of these appeal to us when we talk of changing our system of government? Drumheller. THE SEEKER

Furore Rising Over Naming Of Calgary's Stampede Corral

By LORNE STOUT
(From Western Farm Leader)

What's in a name? A lot of people are asking this question throughout Alberta following the furore that has been stirred up over the naming of Calgary's new arena "Stampede Corral."

Some work for fame and greatness, others for a mere thrill upon them. Pompeii met disaster in the eruption of the volcano Vesuvius, Rome was burned by Nero, London had its great Plague, San Francisco its earthquake, Nagasaki its atomic bomb, and Calgary the "Stampede Corral."

And, like an atom bomb, earthquake, fire and eruption, "The Corral" has rocked Calgary to its very foundations. It may have been a mere coincidence that the Bow River for two weeks had been jammed with ice, flooding and sending people from their homes. Dynamite proved futile, but it did stop the then-new Calgary's new $1,400,000.00 hockey rink was announced — the ice jams in the Bow River shook loose, and there hasn't been even a threat of a flood since.

Why all the furore? It seems simply that a lot of Calgary people do NOT like the name Corral. For days after the decision was made, the Board of Directors of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, it was not the favorite topic on street corners and at coffee counters; it was the ONLY topic.

The Corral had been jammed for the official opening, 8,800 to 9,000 filled all the available seats, something over 6,500, and crowded the rush seats on the promenade to capacity and beyond. All were duly impressed. It WAS without a doubt as fine an arena as could be found on the Conti-

ent. Perfection of planning, skilled workmanship, quality materials had been combined with due respect for both utility and beauty.

True, there was still this confusion of names, but few at the opening hockey game, among the home town Stampeder's had a drubbing to the league-leading Edmonton Flyers, were too greatly concerned. They had been handed ballots as they entered through the turnstiles, many sat through the game with the slips of paper in their hands, mulling over the half dozen names proposed. Some were still undecided when the game was over, and, failing to find ballot boxes, went home with the slip of paper still in their pocket or purse.

Eight thousand ballots were handed out, just over 2,700 turned in. A few days later the Exhibition and Stampede directors met to hear the results and decide, once and for all, on a name. Their decision was a compromise between "Calgary Corral" and "Stampede Gardens", and little consideration was given to Coliseum, under which the project had been started. "Gardens" was out, regardless of the vote. The majority of directors felt with New York, Toronto and Edmonton, to name it but a few, using the name Gardens it was too stereotyped. Some directors were adamant that the word Stampede should be included — and so — "Stampede Corral" got the overwhelming vote.

Some wanted "Fort" Calgary, others plumped for "Chinese Art". There was no disagreement on one point . . . the entire Stampede Board felt the name should be something "different and original". Corral filled the bill. It was a name not to be forgotten, unusual enough to draw attention.

But it must be pointed out that Edmonton passed a bet when it failed to call the indoor Edmonton Arena the "Igloo", just Regina also slipped in stringing along with the timeworn "Gardens" when "Pile O'Bones" would be much more historic and likely to attract attention, or what more suitable for Winnipeg's arena than "Fort Selkirk", "Fort Garry" or just plain "The Fort".

Driving Courses Planned By University of Alberta

Widening the field in instruction to prevent accidents, the University of Alberta will stage a course in driver training for teachers from Aug. 20 to 24 inclusive, sponsored by the Alberta Motor Association.

Arrangements have been made by the Edmonton branch, A.M.A.

Dr. Amos R. Neyhart, of State College, Pa., an internationally known authority on driver training and teacher instruction, will conduct the course, which will handle a maximum class of 40 students.

mand for persons to act as teachers in carrying on this phase of safety work.

In the U.S., the work of teacher training for driver instruction purposes is steadily expanding and as a result, it is believed, this year, the work will be expanded.

At the same time, high school driver training courses are drawing greater enrollments, increasing the need for more teachers.

Trip to Hawaii In Store For Two Alberta Students

A free trip to Honolulu with all expenses paid is in store for two pupils of Alberta's High schools, winners of a contest sponsored by Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

Two prizes will be awarded. Each will consist of a trip to Honolulu and return for a pupil and one parent. It will also include transportation from the winners' home to Vancouver and all hotel and other expenses in Honolulu for a week's stay on Oahu. The winner may designate his own departure time from Vancouver providing that it is prior to Sept. 1, 1951. The expenses and transportation of the parent of the winners will also be paid by Canadian Pacific.

The competition will take the form of an essay and must be one of the following two subjects: "The Future of Trade in the Pacific" or "The History of Transportation in the Pacific." The essay should be not longer than 1,500 words.

Final date of submission of the essay to the entrants' teachers is March 15. Application to enter the competition should be made through a teacher to Canadian Pacific Air Lines, Vancouver AMF. The form and directions will be forwarded by return mail.

The final selection of the winners will be made by Canadian Pacific Air Lines. Judging will be done on the results of the essay as well as on the principal's and staff's opinion of the students' school citizenship, and the student's personality.

Early Prophet Condemned Hypocrisy In Religion

Isaiah, the greatest of the Hebrew prophets, condemned hypocritical worship, just as his predecessors had done.

Amos declared: "I hate, I despise your feasts and I will take no delight in your solemn assemblies . . . But let justice rule as a waters and righteousness as a mighty stream."

Hosea said: "I desire goodness, and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings." Micah said: "He hath showed thee, O man what is good; and what doth Jehovah require of thee but to do justly and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Speaking through Isaiah, Jehovah says, "I have had enough of the burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts; your new moons and your appointed feasts my soul hateth . . . When ye make many prayers, I will not hear. Your hands are full of blood. Wash your hands well of blood. Wash your hands well of blood away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil; learn to do well; seek justice; relieve the oppressed; judge the fatherless; plead for the widow."

"We have all noticed the vast difference between religious ceremony and moral life," declared Frederick B. Fisher. "It may be said with truth that as the moral life of a people declines, the religious ceremony seems to increase. The history of religious reform is the story of rebellion against excessive ritual and corresponding laxity in morals. And, strangely, the older an organized religion becomes, the more ritualistic it is."

"It was this fact which aroused Isaiah. He was a prophet of ethics. He could not bear to hear the name of God mentioned at a sacred altar by wicked priests; nor could he understand how wicked laymen could enter the temple; take part in the sacred ceremonies of worship, and come forth seemingly satisfied, when their lives were open to moral. It was an intellectual appeal that he made."

In his conversation with the Samaritan woman, at Jacob's Well, near Sychar, Jesus taught the principles of true worship.

The story is familiar and we are not concerned with any phase of it except the part of his conversation which deals with worship. In order to change the subject of conversation from her own personal sin and need of a savior, the woman asked Jesus to settle the long-standing dispute between the Jews and the Samaritans as to the right place in which to worship.

Jesus pointed out that God may be worshipped anywhere, the place not mattering nearly so much as the manner in which the worshippers worship he declared: "God is the spirit and they that worship him must do it in spirit and truth." Only sincere and real worship is acceptable to God. All worshippers need to remind themselves of this fact if they grow as they should in their experience and knowledge of God.

Paul, in the writing from his prison cell in Rome to the Christians at Colossi, gave these early Christians some suggested aids to real worship. He recognized the value of "psalms and hymns and spiritual songs" in group worship, in addition to teaching and admonishing and studying the "word of Christ."

Because regular worship attendance is a definite means of Christian growth, we are urged not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together (Heb. 10:25).

Old Time District Resident Passes Away

ROCKYFORD — A resident of Rockyford for the past 35 years, Mrs. Arthur Cammaert, passed away in a Calgary hospital Friday. She was 69 at the time of her death.

Mrs. Cammaert is survived by her husband, a son, Gerald, Rockyford; three daughters; Mrs. P. V. Ross, Saskatoon; Mrs. M. Plyminkoff, Rockyford, and Margaret of Baltimore; seven grandchildren, two brothers, Edward Ayeme, Chicago, and Michael in Belgium; a sister, Mrs. Parry Reynaert in Belgium.

After coming to Canada from Belgium in 1914, Mrs. Cammaert settled at Strathmore, later moving to Rockyford. She was a member of St. Rita's Church and the Catholic Women's League.

High requiem mass was sung at St. Rita's Church, Monday at 10 a.m. Burial was made in the Rockyford Cemetery, with McInnes and Holloway in charge.

F. J. Schmaltz At H. Dealers' Course

BEISEKER — Frank Schmaltz has just returned from Calgary where he attended along with I.H. dealers' servicemen, a special four-day dealers' servicemen's training course. This course, sponsored by the International Harvester Company of Canada, was presented as a special educational and training service feature to assist Harvey dealers in providing their customers with improved service in tractors, motor trucks and farm machines.

Mr. Schmaltz, upon returning to Beiseker, said "The I.H. Servicemen's Training Course I just attended in Calgary has been packed full of valuable information and has given me many new ideas covering the servicing of tractors, motor trucks and farm machines. With the new knowledge and information obtained at this school I am more than ever able to provide the high class type of service that will meet with the needs of the most particular farmers in our district."

Mr. Schmaltz also stated after his return to Beiseker, "I am sure that after this special four-day I.H. Service Training Course I attended, that our customers will see striking evidence of a highly efficient and up-to-date service operation when they visit our shop which I am setting up in the very near future."

An investigation into the life of laundry bags, conducted under the auspices of the National Research Council, revealed that five nylon bags were still in service after being exposed to 144 washings while five control bags of the fibre usually used all failed after 50-60 washings.
